Sullivan Named Fund Campaign Division Head

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — The senior vice president of the First National Bank of Jamestown, Paul J. Sullivan, has been named chairman of the special gifts division of the Little Theater of Jamestown building fund campaign.

The announcement of the appointment was made Friday by Samuel Paladino, general campaign chairman. Paladino said the membership of little theatre is currently being contacted for donations, following a briefing on the building program, during the latest run of Barefoot in the Park. A $100,000 goal has been set for the complete renovation of the former Shea's Theater on E. Second st., in downtown Jamestown which will become the new home of Little Theatre January 1, 1969.

A graduate of Stonier School of Banking at Rutgers University, Sullivan is a veteran of World War II and a past president of the Jamestown Kiwanis Club. From 1955 through 1958 he was chairman of the Jamestown Republican Committee and was treasurer of the Chautauque County Boy Scout Council for seven years.

He is president of the Chautauque County Bankers Association and a director of the Jamestown Chamber of Commerce. In 1956, he was named by the Jamestown Jaycees as Young Man of the Year.

Little Girl Requires Transplant

HERMISTON, Ore. (AP) — Rebecca "Becky" Howland, 7, will get a heart transplant as soon as a suitable donor is found.

Dr. Norman Shumway at Stanford University in Palo Alto, Calif., says the search for a suitable heart for Becky will be difficult because she is a young child requiring a smaller heart than adults.

Since Shumway examined Becky Monday, she has returned to this community of 5,200 persons in northeastern Oregon.

Dr. John Bussman, a heart specialist in Portland, Ore., which is about 200 miles west of Hermiston, says Becky has a defective left heart ventricle. Bussman, a classmate of Shumway at the University of Minnesota Medical School, said the heart might have a growth or a large blood clot.

Shumway has transplanted two hearts, but the patients died from other complications.

When Shumway finds a suitable heart, he will notify Becky's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elton Howland.

"We're all packed and ready to go," her father said Thursday.

Bank Robber Impersonates Detective

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Police charged Friday that a man convicted of bank robbery impersonated a detective to pull a second holdup.

Philip Haushhauler, 32, formerly of Pittsburgh but now in Western Penitentiary, was ordered held on a charge of armed robbery.

City Detective Joseph Walker testified that Haushhauler made off with $36,500 after gaining the confidence of employees at the Park Savings and Loan Co. in the Greenfield section last October.

Walker said Haushhauler came to the bank and told manager Keith Warner he was a detective there to prepare the bank officials for a suspected holdup.

When the $36,500 was gathered together on the manager's desk "to be dusted" to catch the expected robber, the "detective" became the robber, Walker said he placed his finger in his pocket like he had a gun and stuffed the money in a briefcase.

After handcuffing the manager to a pipe, the bandit fled. Police said Warner identified Haushhauler through photos.

Haushhauler later was convicted on a bank robbery in Fayette County.

Heart Rate, Blood Pressure Regulate Mental Effectiveness

(c) N.Y. Times New Service BALTIMORE — Heart rate and blood pressure, together, appear to be a primary factor in regulating mental attentiveness, Dr. John I. Lacey said here Friday.

His evidence indicates that attentiveness is linked with a drop in heart rate and blood pressure while increased heart rate and blood pressure decreases some of the activities of the brain.

The conventional view would give the heart the opposite role, if any at all, in regulating brain activity.

Lacey, chairman of the Department of Psychophysiology and Neurophysiology at Fels Research Institute, Yellow Springs, Ohio, discussed this view of heart and circulatory system effects during a scientific symposium here of the friends of Psychiatric Research Inc., a nonprofit group that supports psychiatric research.

He emphasized that he was only presenting a theory, supported by evidence from research with animals and human beings.

Lacey said heart rate and blood pressure appear to act as a negative feedback mechanism to help control the way in which a person mobilizes his attention.

In short, his theory proposes that the brain can tell the heart to slow down and the heart, by following that cue, tells the brain to be more attentive. Conversely, when the brain tells the heart to speed up and deliver more blood at higher pressure, the heart tells the brain, in effect, to calm down.

The body also has ways of bypassing the system so that changes in attentiveness need not necessarily be related to every change in blood pressure and heart rate, the scientist said.

The message from heart to brain is delivered through nerve cells at key points in the aorta and the carotid arteries. The former is the body's main trunk artery. The latter is a major artery through which blood is delivered to the brain. A rise in pressure at these points has a restraining effect on some aspects of brain wave activity. These aspects are believed related to attention.

Lacey said the effect has been found in animal experiments and in tests of humans. As an example of the latter, he said, substantial drops in heart rate can be observed when a person is doing an exacting problem in mental arithmetic or when a person is awaiting some expected stimulus.

Lacey said there have been scattered references to this kind of response in scientific reports over the past several decades but they have usually been ignored.

Nixon Reopens Campaign In Low-Keyed Fashion

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon reopened his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination Friday on a deliberately low-keyed family note contrasting with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's all-out drive for delegates.

As the organ of the Unitarian Church of All Souls pealed "America the Beautiful," Nixon strode to the pulpit to tell his daughter Tricia's Finch College graduating class, "I'm confident of the future because of the quality of our young people."

"We do have problems," he told the 70 graduates, 36 associates and their families from the most affluent section of American society, "but if I had to pick a time and place to be alive, I would choose the United States of America in the last third of the 20th century."

Finch College, on New York's East Side, is one of the most expensive and exclusive schools for girls in the United States.

Except for family touches, Nixon's speech was largely a series of excerpts from speeches he has made during his coast-to-coast campaigns. There was no sign of the "brand new campaign" he promised to launch just prior to the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Tricia, 22, her long blonde hair tumbling down the back of her black academic gown, beamed at the man who told the audience "I'm just Patricia's father. I remember the day she was born—I wasn't there, I was away campaigning."

Just behind her was sister Julie, 19, with her fiancé, David Eisenhower, grandson of former President Dwight Eisenhower.

All of them showed their pride as the Finch president, Roland R. DeMarco, conferred on Mrs. Nixon an honorary Doctor of Law as "a living personification of the highest ideals of womanhood."

Nixon, making his first public appearance since the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, told the girls and their families that that tragic event would have no impact on his campaigning.

He said he would continue his practice of mingling with campaign crowds because "there is a special chemistry between the candidate and the voter that only comes when you meet person to person."

Poor People's Leader Addresses Press Club

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leader of the Poor People's Campaign addressed the National Press Club Friday and answered a question he said reporters keep asking him: What do the poor people want?

"We want M.O.R.E.," said the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, explaining: "Back in the 30s or 40s, the perennial reporter's question to union leaders was: 'What does labor want?' I can still remember John L. Lewis' answer—in one of his testier moments—he said: 'Labor wants m-o-r-e.' 'I can't really improve on that. That's what poor people want.'"

The stocky Negro leader, dressed in blue denim, received three standing ovations from the capital press corps—when he entered, when he was introduced and when he left.

Meanwhile, the campaign against poverty continued to generate momentum as it approached next Wednesday's "National Solidarity Day" demonstration.

Campaigners conducted protest actions at three federal agencies: the departments of Agriculture, State, and Health, Education and Welfare.

Demonstrators at Agriculture continued their around-the-clock vigil against hunger into its third day.

A group of Mexican-Americans demanding rights under various treaties remained outside the State Department after staying overnight Thursday. The protest began Thursday morning.

A second group of Mexican-Americans bombarded officials at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare with demands that schools permit them to preserve their heritage of culture and language.

The Interior Department issued a one-week extension of the campaigners' permit to camp at "Resurrection City" near the Lincoln Memorial.

The original permit, issued May 10, would have run out Sunday—three days before the big supporting demonstration.

But Abernathy, answering questions at the press club, again made it clear that the poor people plan to stay until they're ready to go home.

He later told of the extension in a speech to about 200 demonstrators at the Agriculture Department and said "it didn't make any difference—we were going to stay anyhow." The crowd roared in delight.

Nine of the first campaigners, arrested in demonstrations at the Capitol were acquitted Friday by a District of Columbia Court jury. They had been charged with disorderly conduct on May 23.

The head of the National Solidarity Day, Sterling Tucker, told reporters he is certain that at least 500 busloads—or 25,000 people—will come to Washington from out of town for the demonstration.

Wallace Insists Platform For President is Biracial

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — George Wallace, declaring "every person is a racist by somebody's definition," insisted again Friday he is running for president on a biracial platform.

"I would like to have the support of Negro citizens of Nashville and Tennessee," Wallace told newsmen after arriving from Atlanta on the fourth day of a fund-raising swing through the South.

He came to Nashville for an after-dinner speech and, later, a political rally at the city auditorium, the same format he has used since the tour began Tuesday in Memphis.

The former Alabama governor, talking with reporters at an airport news conference, predicted he will carry Tennessee in the Nov. 5 election and, looking outside the South, that he will get a plurality of the votes also in some Midwestern states "like Illinois and Michigan."

Wallace, seeking again to change his racial image, said his critics "try to make a racist out of people who are more compassionate toward their fellow man than people in other parts of the world."

Explaining his states rights philosophy and his persistent attack on federal bureaucracy, the third-party candidate told newsmen, "I'm in favor of letting local people run their local institutions because it is the interest of both races."

Turning to the war in Vietnam, the former governor said he feels the American people "don't want us to withdraw dishonorably." If the peace talks in Paris fall through, he said, "the people are going to want it (the war) concluded militarily."

"And if we can't win it militarily," he added, "we oughtn't to be there."

Two Youths Charged With Auto Theft

Two Warren youths have been charged with larceny of a motor vehicle by state police trooper Mark Golomb of the Warren substation.

Golomb said charges were filed before Peace Justice Frederick Berry against David Stuart, 18, of 8 Morrison st. and Lyn Collin, 17, 1916 Pennsylvania ave. E. The latter, police stated, was charged as an adult.

The arrests stemmed from the theft of two cars April 17 from Warren Collision parking lot at Venturetown. One car, stolen at 9 p.m., owned by Ralph L. Barney, 805 Lincoln ave., a 1966 Chevrolet and a second taken at 9:30 p.m., owned by Earl M. Eaton, 4 Railroad st., Clarendon were recovered, Golomb stated.

Traffic Mishap Brings Reckless Driving Charge

A 19-year-old West Virginia man was charged with reckless driving following an early morning traffic mishap Friday.

Borough police officer Robert Kates said that at 4:40 a.m. a pickup truck operated by Ronald Gale Little, R.D. 1, New Cumberland, W. Va., traveling east on Pennsylvania avenue W., went up over the curb east of the Ludlow street intersection, struck and ran over a small tree, hit a no parking sign, rammed into a larger tree and came to a halt.

Little, police said, fell asleep at the wheel.

Warren Relief Association Holds Meeting

Miss Mary Craft, chairman of the finance committee of the Warren Relief Association, reported at the group's monthly meeting this week that expenses have been growing faster than income.

Mrs. Joseph DeFrees, president, announced that attempts are being made to replace glass bottles for collecting donations at local businesses with plastic containers. Money received in the bottles is used to provide milk for children.

The next meeting will be in August at the home of Mrs. J. W. A. Luce.

Workshop Set For Teachers

A one-day workshop for teachers in the elementary school summer remedial reading program will be held Monday at Market Street School.

Local school officials, including Superintendent Dr. T. K. Barratt, Howard A. Thompson, and Dr. J. Blair Logan will also speak to the teachers.

Harold Miller is in charge of the workshop.

The program for the day will be: orientation in the auditorium 7:45 a.m.-8 a.m.; registration 8:15-8:30; introduction, 8:30-9:00; social period, 10:10-10:20; program, 10:20-11:45.

State Convention Delegation Could Boost Rocky's Chances

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's drive for the Republican presidential nomination may shortly get a solid boost from the Pennsylvania convention delegation.

Cov. Raymond P. Shafer, although standing firm as a favorite son candidate, now is 100 per cent for Rockefeller, the Associated Press learned Friday.

And so are four-fifths of the delegation, according to an Associated Press survey.

Pennsylvania's 64-man delegation will be third largest at the Miami Beach convention. The AP poll found 50 votes for Rockefeller, former Vice President Richard Nixon with 9, Gov. Ronald Reagan of California with one and four uncommitted.

Shafer is officially withholding endorsement of Rockefeller, but is expected to declare within the next few days. A source close to the governor said he is "just waiting for the right moment that will provide the most national attention."

Such a "moment" might come Sunday when Shafer appears on NBC's "Meet the Press," if he can reach every delegate and discuss the pros and cons with them.

Rockefeller reportedly feels that the backing of the large Pennsylvania delegation may encourage most of Ohio and Michigan delegates to swing to him.

Shafer has said only that his own unfinished survey shows "a substantial majority" of the delegates favoring Rockefeller.

Rockefeller plans to come to Philadelphia Monday to campaign. He's scheduled to meet with convention delegates and attend a reception for 500 Republican party leaders, including congressmen, state legislators, county chairmen, members of the state committee and others.

Rockefeller also has scheduled a news conference.

Youth Says He Committed Long String of Crimes

Charges are pending against a 17-year-old Warren youth who has admitted to 60 crimes of various natures dating back to early in 1964.

Sgt. Edward Peterson of the borough police department, in charge of the extensive investigation, said the youth was questioned in Warren County jail where he is currently confined following his arrest for burglary recently by the sheriff's department in connection with the break-in at a Youngsville jewelry store.

Written and signed statements by the youth were taken by Peterson in the presence of the youth's attorney, the sergeant said.

The crimes include larceny of a motor vehicle, larceny, burglary, hit and run and shoplifting in just about every store in town, Peterson stated.

The largest shoplifting episode, which was not reported to police, involved $400 worth of miniature racing equipment from one store.

Sgt. Peterson said the culprit also admitted to stealing a bunch of pants from one store and attempting to return them for cash. Upon learning a sales slip was required, the youth stole price tags from another establishment and affixed them to the pants. He then returned the pants a few at a time to the place where he had secured the price tags, averaging, according to Peterson, about $6 a day.

The youth also admitted to stealing a boat owned by a local police officer from its mooring place at the landing dock at Warren General Hospital.

Other crimes in which the 17-year-old admitted involvement included theft of gasoline from a number of cars, jimmied cigarette machines and stolen beer. A hand gun was stolen from a store and two juvenile girls transported to Akron, Ohio with police listing them as missing.

In the malicious mischief line numerous car windshields were stoned, shot through with a B-B gun or broken by hurling coke bottles.

Sgt. Peterson said the investigation is still not complete.

U.S. Officials Take Issue With Eaton's Forecast

PARIS — American officials Friday took issue with a forecast by Cyrus Eaton, the 85-year-old American millionaire who has recently held talks with Soviet leaders, that "we are on the threshold of peace in Vietnam."

A spokesman for the American negotiating delegation declined to comment on Eaton's remarks. But privately, officials said they knew of "no basis for that optimism" about an overall settlement nor Eaton's suggestion that resolution of the bombing issue was imminent.

Eaton, who conferred here earlier this week with both American and North Vietnamese negotiators, made his remarks in a telephone interview with the New York Times.

American negotiators reportedly heard from Eaton, as they have through other indirect channels previously, that if all American bombing of North Vietnam were halted, Communist officials believed "that major movement would occur on the North Vietnamese side immediately."

Semi-Finalists In Pageant Chosen Today

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — The field in the Miss Pennsylvania competition, also called the "Pennsylvania Scholarship Pageant", is to be trimmed Saturday with the selection of ten semi-finalists from the 21 entries.

Naming of the semi-finalists is based on their performance Friday in the swim suit, evening gown, and talent categories.

Then the ten are to don swim suits and evening gowns and display their talent specialties once again in hopes of landing one of the five finalist positions.

The new Miss Pennsylvania, to succeed Doris Ann Lausch, 21, of Lancaster, the reigning queen, will be chosen from among the five. Her next stop would be Atlantic City on Labor day weekend for the Miss America contest.

Before travelling to New Jersey, however, Miss Pennsylvania will collect a $1,000 scholarship. Another $2,500 in scholarship money is to be distributed to the four runners-up.

Saturday's program, and the entire pageant, bear the theme "Pennsylvania Excitement." In line with that, the entertainment Saturday features Harry David Snow, a Broadway performer, and Vonda Kay Van Dyke, Miss America of 1965. The two will sing Broadway show tunes.

One of the 21 entrants trying to make the cut was Jane Roshong, Miss Warren County.

The finals of the contest will be broadcast tonight at 9:30 o'clock on channels 10 and 12.

Route 8 Lanes To Open July 1

William Troxell, district engineer, State Highway Department, has announced that two lanes of Route 8 between Oil City and Reno are expected to be open by July 1.

A July 1 deadline for the entire construction project had been set, but fulfillment of the deadline is doubtful due to recent weather conditions, Troxell stated.

Engineers are working on the final design of Route 8 relocation to Barkeyville and various firms toiling over Route 8 relocations and the Franklin bypass.

Outdoor Club Announces Tour

Members of the Allegheny Outdoor Club and interested persons will be conducted on a tour of the Tionesta Scenic Area this Sunday (June 16) by Larry Stotz, retired foreman. Larry is well acquainted with the historical and scientific value of this unique stand of virgin timber, so the tour promises to be an interesting outing.

The chief attraction of the area is the fact that it exemplifies the "climax" forest, a type of timber growth that predates even our white pine forests such as those at Heart's Content and Cook's Forest State Park.

At times scientists have traveled from all parts of the world to study its unusual growth pattern.

Persons from the Warren area will meet at the courthouse parking lot at 1 p.m., others can join the auto caravan at Ludlow where it will assemble at Wenstran's garage. Departure from the Ludlow meeting place will be about 2 p.m.

Crowds Visiting "Hippie Farm" Prompts Action

MEADVILLE — Crowds visiting what many refer to as the "hippie farm" have prompted Summit Township supervisors to schedule a special session at 7 p.m. Friday, June 21, to consider an ordinance to ban parking on Inlet and Pachuck roads.

The roads are adjacent to the camp recently established by the Anthropodelic Church from California.

Some of the sight-seers have been referred to openly as "peeping toms."

According to a published report in Meadville: "It was admitted that some of the girls wear clothing not generally accepted in this area. There have been reports of 'topless' outfits and even some persons in the nude. The leaders did not deny that such incidents take place."

One of the leaders of the group was quoted: "We believe in doing whatever our conscience tells us is all right as long as no one else is hurt."

Lynce said the action has become necessary because of the large number of cars parking on the two roads to see the Californians and their unusual way of life.

Parking has created a problem and police had to be called in to move the traffic.

May Business Activities Show Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The thermometer of business activity climbed in May after an April hesitation, and it showed enough heat to sustain the administration's pressure for an anti-inflationary tax increase.

The output of factories, mines and refineries reached a record rate in May at 163.7 per cent of the 1957-59 average, the Federal Reserve Board reported Friday.

Retail sales in May rose 1 per cent after an April dip caused largely by the big-city riots that followed the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King.

Retail sales volume still stood slightly below the March record, the board noted, but another major indicator of a taut economy—the rate of unemployment—held steady at the April level of 3.5 per cent, the lowest since 1953.

Accordingly, the net effect of the May indicators so far issued has been to bolster the warnings issued by the administration and Reserve Board members that inflationary pressures will intensify to the point of raising the threat of a financial crisis, unless Congress cools off demand by fiscal action.

President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent surtax, linked with a $6-billion cut in fiscal 1969 spending, is expected to reach a long-delayed vote in the House next week.

The Federal Reserve's final production figure for April showed a rate of 162.5, or 0.5 below the March rate.

The new peak of industrial activity, 5 per cent above the level of a year ago, was attained largely because of greater production of consumer items, including automobiles, and of industrial materials.

Although retail sales did not match the record March level, they were 8 per cent above a year earlier. Sales at durable goods establishments rose 1.5 per cent from April to May.

The wholesale price index rose slightly further, with higher prices for farm products and foods offsetting an estimated 0.2 per cent decline in industrial commodities.

Jacka Attending Conference

Dr. John M. Jacka, assistant County Superintendent of Schools, and program specialist in the office of the County Superintendent, is attending a week-long statewide conference at Shippensburg State College.

The conference is on Federal programs in education, and is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction.

Engineering Students Applaud Summer Research Project

NEW YORK (AP) — College engineering students have been challenged by a major manufacturer of women's undergarments to use their slide rule techniques to design a better brassiere.

Many studious males applauded the idea and promised to do some summer research on the subject before the contest's deadline next fall. Women engineering students, however, were not so enthusiastic.

"After all," said a red-headed junior at Columbia University's School of Engineering, "a woman is not like a bridge."

The coed, Mary Frances McGuire, 19, thinks the best design would be a natural. She turned thumbs down on one student's plan to design a "blow up" bra.

"Too uncomfortable," she said.

Rachel Mivrah, 19, another Columbia student thought the contest "fascinating."

"Science is not just cold facts," she said, "You take everything about science and live with it. It's fascinating that science could be used even for such a thing as my wearing a bra."

Miss Mivrah said she'd be happy to consult with any of the male students who intend to submit designs.

Andrew Gaspar, 20, an honor student at Columbia, said: "It's the kind of project you'd like to do in a group."

Gaspar said he thinks it is about time a woman's bra was designed from a man's viewpoint.

An instruction sheet now being distributed by the Lovable Co., sponsor of the contest, to some of the nation's major engineering schools emphasizes the importance of "function, styling, comfort and safety."

The firm said that so far only the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has rejected forms for the contest which has prizes ranging up to $500.

A spokesman for MIT said the nature of the contest "isn't for us."

Electrical Workers Vote To Accept New Contract

A vote of acceptance by the membership of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO, on a new two year labor agreement with Pennsylvania Electric Company was confirmed today by the union and the utility.

The new contract, which extends to May 25, 1970, will be signed Tuesday in Johnstown.

The vote, taken on an agreement reached by the IBEW System Council and Penelac last week, was conducted on Monday by each of the seven locals included in the Council.

The new contract provides for wage increases of 5.19 per cent in each of the two years. It also provides for increased shift differentials and for improvements in vacation, hospital, medical surgical insurance and sick leave allowance provisions. Other features of the agreement for the most part deal with specific types of jobs.

The Company estimates that the economic package will represent increases in its payroll costs for its IBEW employees of 5,795 per cent and 5,521 per cent respectively in each of the two years.

The IBEW represents about 1575 employees in three of Penelac's four divisions and at its generating stations. The previous contract expired on May 25.

The favorable ratification vote and the highlights of the new agreement were announced by IBEW System Council Presi-

Education Association Discontinues Sanctions

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania State Education Association announced Friday it is discontinuing the "sanctions" it levied in a bid for increased teacher salaries.

The PSEA had been advising prospective teachers that Pennsylvania was not a desirable state in which to teach before Gov. Shafer signed legislation providing a $44.7 million increase for teachers.

The measure also raises the minimum starting salary for a teacher from $4,500 to $5,400.

The professional union organization aimed the sanctions against the governor and the legislature April 6 while lobbying for the raises. The effort included a Teachers' March on Harrisburg.

PSEA President Joseph Standa of Johnstown said those who

Tidioute Couple File Suit In Accident Case

A Tidioute man and his wife have filed suit against a Pleasantville resident as the result of a motorcycle-car collision on May 14, 1965.

Robert E. and Karen D. Howe of RD 2, Tidioute, have filed a complaint in trespass in the Venango County Court of Common Pleas against Marion N. Wescoat, RD 2, Pleasantville.

Mr. and Mrs. Howe charge the defendant with failing to give the right of way as he drove his car out of a driveway four miles west of Pleasantville on Route 27 and into the path of a motorcycle operated by Robert Howe.

The resulting collision caused Howe to be thrown to the pavement and allegedly permanently injured. The plaintiff claims traumatic shock, injury to the nervous system and permanent lameness. He was hospitalized at Titusville and Erie during May and June, 1965, June, 1966 and August, 1967.

According to Howe, he was totally disabled from May 14 to June 26, 1965 and will be partially disabled for the rest of his life. He claims $4,866.17 in lost income and $2,610 in medical expenses.

Mr. and Mrs. Howe are demanding first count damages in excess of $10,000. The second count is $269.38 for damage to the motorcycle.

Spock Found Guilty In Conspiracy Trial

BOSTON (AP) — Baby doctor Benjamin Spock was convicted Friday on federal charges of conspiracy to violate the draft laws.

One defendant, Marcus Raskin, 34, of Washington, was acquitted, and the other three, including William Sloane Coffin, Jr., Yale University chaplain, were convicted a long time ago.

Also found guilty of conspiracy with the 65-year-old pediatrician and Coffin were Michael Ferber, 23, a Harvard graduate student, and Mitchell Goodman, 44, a writer and teacher from Temple, Maine.

Richard G. Hussey, foreman of the jury, announced the verdicts in a loud, clear voice.

The families of the defendants sat in the front three rows of the spectators' section as the verdicts were returned.

When Hussey said Raskin had been acquitted of the conspiracy charge a murmur of surprise swept the spectator and press section. During the trial Calvin Bartlett, lawyer for Raskin, had maintained that his client never was part of any conspiracy and hardly knew his codefendants.

The maximum penalty is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. The trial began May 20.

In giving the case to the jury, U.S. District Judge Francis J.W. Ford told them the prime question to be decided was whether the defendants agreed to violate federal laws.

Youth and Our Environment

Make a list of Warren County's most outstanding characteristics and what do they add up to? Chiefly natural beauty, wide open spaces and some of the most outstanding opportunities to enjoy outdoor sports and interests that can be found anywhere. In short, the perfect set of surroundings for encouraging the youth of the county to develop the close association with nature so essential to living the "fuller life."

Yet, to a great extent, we find the youth of our community being directed toward those organized activities that can be easily supervised by quasi-interested adults on a mass basis. No different at all from the so-called recreation activities enjoyed by the youth of our great metropolitan centers where no other opportunities exist.

This shouldn't be. Not in Warren County.

For within this county can be found a preponderance of men who

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

On Collective Guilt

We are still shell-shocked by the tragedy, and small wonder. One minute Bobby Kennedy was thanking his cheering adherents for the support that had brought him victory in the crucial California primary, and the next he was writhing in agony from a fatal wound. The human mechanism is not geared for such strain, and we sat glazed before the TV set, hardly crediting what we were seeing. The shock diminishes with time but wonder will continue to engulf us. It makes no sense that a young man in the prime of life should die because of an alien madman's bullet. But that is the undeniable, bitter fact. And yet—perhaps because it is hard to face the brutal truth—it is human nature to try to find some alternative and lay it to a "plot."

We search desperately for a whipping boy, someone or something on which we can vent our grief. And, if there's none to be found, as a last resort we go in for self-flagellation and put the blame on "society." So it is no surprise when our liberals in the various media—notably TV—indulge in discussions that indict all of us, individually and-or collectively.

When John Kennedy was slain, the first reaction of his anguished admirers was that it was a right-wing conspiracy hatched by "the hate that envelops Dallas." Even our Chief Justice, interviewed shortly after the killing, spoke with that assumption obviously in mind.

And a Dallas clergyman, too, testified to the "dreadful climate of hate." He told of a school where the children had cheered the news and been given the rest of the day off to celebrate. The truth turned out to be that the principal, sick at the sad tidings, had called classes off for the day without telling the youngsters why. And, like any kids getting an extra school holiday, the children had cheered. If that minister ever recanted, no TV news recorded it.

Even when the slayer proved to be a lone-wolf Communist, liberal editors still referred to "hate-drenched Dallas." Which was much as though Buffalo was full of anarchists because Czolgosz slew McKinley there. Or that Washington, D.C.—or the acting profession—was at fault when Booth shot Lincoln.

Likewise, when Dr. King was gunned down—suspect James Earl Ray now, heaven be praised, has finally been caught—all sorts of breast-beating editorials denounced Memphis as a Jim Crow city where no Negro was safe. Yet Memphis had always had an enviable record of inter-racial amity, and Ray was no more a citizen of it than the self-righteous critics.

So it was no surprise when, shortly after the Election Night tragedy, a cartoon in our liberal Los Angeles paper depicted the town with a signpost reading "Dallas." By that time, the suspect and his background were known, and yet the innuendo ignored the facts. Ours, too, was a wicked city, full of evil men. If Dallas was Sodom, then Los Angeles was Gomorrah.

Strangely, it was Los Angeles that had given RFK his victory. But there was one killer among us—so the entire city was condemned.

We may well be grateful that Jehovah is far more merciful than these liberal judges. When the Lord decided to destroy Sodom and Gomorrah, Abraham pleaded, "Will Thou also destroy the righteous with the wicked?" and said there might be 50 good men worth saving.

And Jehovah reconsidered and finally agreed to spare the cities if Abraham could come up with even ten righteous men.

Alas, Abraham couldn't find even that few—so the Lord took His vengeance and rained fire and brimstone down on those cities.

But Los Angeles County gave RFK about 600,000 ballots—so I am confident the Lord will overlook the cartoonist and, in His infinite mercy, spare even those Republican sinners like me who chose Max Rafferty over the sainted Tom Kuchel. Selah!

I don't know whether you have noticed or not but it's been a particularly fine spring for flowering plants. Rhododendrons, flowering crabs, viburnum, azaleas, forsythia, and a host of others have been giving just about everything possible for a splendid show of beauty.

Many people would really like to have rhododendrons around their home but consider them too much of a "prima-donna"—a plant that takes entirely too much care and effort. So, they settle for a elder bush or no shrubbery at all.

Perhaps we could spend a paragraph or two discussing rhododendrons, their likes and dislikes. The first thing to remember is that they're woodland plants that just naturally do best in partial shade and slightly wet soil—maybe slightly moist soil is a better term, because they cannot stand wet feet. They practically won't live at all in a very swampy place. They can stand some sun of course, but they don't need it all day long. If you put these plants on the sunny side of your house and expose them to strong winter winds you may as well start having memorial services for them at the same time as the planting ceremony.

In addition to some shade and moisture, they want loose soil constantly top-dressed with wood chips, rotten sawdust, or pine needles. As this material rots and decays it tends to keep the soil loose and slightly acidic. Regarding pruning, they don't require much, but if you want to keep them from becoming leggy remember this primary bit about how hardwood plants grow. With few exceptions, plants make longitudinal growth from the terminal growth buds.

Did you ever notice if you pound a nail into a hardwood tree about two feet above the ground that twenty five years later the nail will still be about two feet above ground? During the years the trunk will have gotten bigger around, the branches will have grown wider, but the growth will have largely been from the tip end buds or terminal buds. So then this means if you want to keep your rhododendrons bushy it is necessary to remove the terminal buds. They're willing to shoot many new branches if the terminal buds are removed several times during the growing season when the plants are young.

Well, suppose your plants are living, but only have a few leaves about four or five feet above the ground. Between the leaves and the ground you have six or eight woody stems. What to do? Simply cut out everything at ground level except for one or two of the lanky stems. Young shoots will grow out at the points of cutting, and a year or two later you can remove the remaining lanky ones. You start all over with a strong healthy plant.

If you have an extra $1.25 in the sugar bowl or in the left hand dresser drawer, you might be interested in Penn State's correspondence course on "Azaleas and Rhododendrons." All you need to do is send your name and address to Box 5000, University Park, Penna. 16802. Slip in your dollar and a quarter and you'll receive the first lesson very shortly. The nice part about correspondence courses is that if you don't want to, you needn't send any answers back. You get all the information, however, and can keep it for a ready reference.

By the way, before I quit today, I want to thank everyone for the "Happy Wedding Anniversary" cards. We enjoyed them.

Fold Up Resurrection City

WASHINGTON—For their own good and the good of the country, the Poor People's March should now fold up Resurrection City and go home.

In the first place, they have achieved some of their goals. A $5 billion housing bill has been passed; more than $200 million in surplus food has been earmarked.

In the second place, the Poor People have reached the point of diminishing returns. If they stay longer, they may hurt what they have accomplished.

No group in years has been treated so generously by the federal government, which allowed them to camp on a public park, and by the churches of the city and by most of the residents of Washington. The churches opened up their doors, women made thousands of sandwiches, people contributed blankets, the Hechlinger hardware stores contributed lumber at cost, many grocery chains contributed food.

The public park adjacent to the Lincoln Memorial has been churned up by bulldozers and the daily wear of several thousand feet to a point where it will take at least a year to restore the grass. Poor People's marshals, acting with the officiousness which they objected to on the part of Birmingham police, have even barred picture taking, saying, "These are private homes," though of course they are located on land belonging to all the taxpayers.

Negro newsmen have been beaten and pushed around. The Supreme Court, which has done more for racial equality than any institution in history, had its windows broken. The Negro population of Washington has suffered economically because summer business is down, tourism is off. Greyhound bus alone cancelled $200,000 worth of bus trips to Washington. This hurts the Negro population of Washington first.

All this has been taken with considerable forbearance by the citizens of Washington.

Negro newsmen have been the most critical. "The Washington press," wrote William Raspberry, widely read Negro columnist of the Washington Post, "has, if anything, been too kind. If more of the internal strife, lack of control and poor discipline had been reported, there might have been more pressure... to set things right."

Louis Lomax, national Negro columnist, has reported on "absentee leadership" of "a city of chaos" and told of a "night of violence, disruption and non-leadership that easily could have spilled over into Washington itself."

He reported how "several carloads of middle-class women, Negro and white, who arrived with food and clothing were brusquely turned away by marshals whose lack of knowledge manifested itself in surliness and incredible rudeness." Lomax described Resurrection City as "completely unsafe, a jungle at night." And as early

The Mexican Americans

The plight of the American Negro has been dramatized by the Poor People's March on Washington. But a much smaller minority group -- the Mexican Americans participating in the march -- has had little voice in the overall strategy of this campaign.

When I worked among the Mexican Americans in the Southwest, they were known as Spanish-speaking Americans. Having no Spanish blood in my veins, I was called an Anglo. One day I stopped at the adobe dwelling of one of these Spanish Americans to discuss a grazing problem with the father of the large brood of children scattered about his ranchero. His wife came to the door and greeted me pleasantly. When I asked in English if I could see her husband, she turned and shouted to him, "El Americano es aqui." This impressed me. I was no longer just an Anglo; I was an American.

The irony of all this was that the poverty stricken people on this ranchero still talked 16th century Spanish, considered themselves more Spanish than American and yet they were descended from peons who accompanied Don Juan de Oñate when he made his entrada from Old Mexico into these mountains in 1598. I was descended from Scotch-Irish-German immigrants who came to America in 1836 -- more than two centuries later than the ancestors of these mountain people. And yet I was a full-fledged American, and they were Spanish Americans. Only the American Indians had lived on American soil longer than these people.

High up in the Pecos Mountains of New Mexico are nestled as May 25 he called it a "city falling apart, dangerously so."

It is now June 15 and Resurrection City, abandoned by a majority of the Poor People, should fold up and go home.

Despite the assassination of three national leaders in four and a half years, and despite the current clamor by the American people for gun control, an overwhelming majority of Republicans on the House Judiciary Committee voted against a strict gun control law this week. The vote was behind closed doors so the public could not know how the vote went. However, we can report the roll call.

The twelve Republicans who voted against restrictions on the sale of the instruments of assassination were:

William M. McCulloch, Ohio; Richard H. Poff, Va.; Clark MacGregor, Minn.; Edward Hutchinson, Mich.; Robert McClory, Ill.; Henry P. Smith, Ill. N.Y.; William V. Roth, Jr., Del.; Thomas J. Meskill, Conn.; Charles W. Sandman, Jr., N.J.; Thomas F. Ralisback, Ill.; Edward G. Blester, Jr., Pa.; Charles E. Wiggins, Calif.

Four Democrats voted with the Republicans against gun control as follows:

William M. Tucker, Va.; Robert T. Ashmore, S.C.; John Dowdy, Tex.; Basil L. Whitener, N.C.

Two Republicans who voted for gun control were Charles Mathias, who is running for the Senate in Maryland, and Arch Moore, who is running for governor of West Virginia. Two Democrats were absent: Edwin Willis, La., and Jack Brooks, Tex.

The bill was relatively weak and did not call for the registration of guns. It merely added long guns to the sale of hand guns which are already regulated in the anti-crime bill.

When the vote was announced 16 to 16, which meant defeat, Rep. McCulloch, the ranking Republican, explained that he was voting "no" because of the too rapid procedure. He wanted more time to debate the bill.

Politely, Chairman Celler reminded McCulloch that the Senate amendments to the crime bill had been rammed down the committee's throat without any debate at all.

"I asked that these amendments be sent back to conference for careful consideration," said the chairman. "The amendments include not only a gun control bill but vitally important amendments affecting rulings of the Supreme Court. You Republicans voted overwhelmingly against proper debate."

Note: The Democrats who voted inside the Judiciary Committee for gun control were: Emanuel Celler; Michael Feighan, Ohio; Peter Rodino, N.J.; Byron Rogers, Colo.; Harold Donohue, Mass.; Robert Kastenmeier, Wis.; James Corman, Calif.; Don Edwards, Calif.; William St. Onge, Conn.; William Hungate, Mo.; Hervert Tenzer, N.Y.; John Conyers, Mich.; Andrew Jacobs, Ind.; and Joshua Eilberg, Pa.

feuds again came to the surface. I had learned to sense the gathering storm, and was prepared to use the only escape route--the single door.

Suddenly, the fiddler's taunt nerves snapped like a broken string on his violin. He swore in English at the guitar player--for no Spanish cuss words could do justice to his feelings at that moment. In reprisal for the insult, the guitar player swung at him knocking him to the floor. The dancers began to take sides, and the storm broke in all its fury. I leaped through the doorway and out into the night before any knives drew blood.

The old Spanish land grants, which were given to the Spanish landed gentry by the King of Spain when the American Southwest was still under Spanish rule, have nearly all been acquired by the Anglos. The Spanish Americans have been squeezed into small mountain villages where they try to eke out a subsistence living on tiny patches of irrigated land. But the amount of irrigated land is very limited. Over the centuries of occupancy it has been divided and sub-divided so many times that a single family has to practice the most intensive form of farming if its members are not to go hungry.

The staple diet of the Spanish-American mountain people is tortillas, frijoles (beans), and chili. This, contrary to popular belief, is not Spanish food. It is the native food of the Mexican Indians.

The Spanish-American woods workers that I supervised always carried their lunches in lard pails. Each pail contained cold beans, tortillas, and a little chili. This was their diet three times a day.

I once asked a doctor in Bernalillo how the Spanish Americans could eat so much hot chili and still have any stomachs left. His answer was that they didn't have any stomachs left that were worthy of the name.

The College Kitty

HARRISBURG -- Pennsylvania's scholarship loan program was established to lend an estimated $8 million to help promising -- but fundless -- students make their way through college.

From loans to grants was an easy administrative step, and the Legislature later obliged by establishing the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency. Eight regional offices work with high school guidance counselors to inform students of the loan program.

By the 1967-68 college year scholarship handouts were totaling $31 million in the Commonwealth. Even before the money was spent or accounted for, late last summer, the pressure was on for further increases in 1968-69. With last fall's tax problem still unsettled for the current fiscal year, the Legislature passed a resolution of intent, promising to increase the college kitty to $46.5 million.

Haratine

This spring, under stiff cross-examination in legislative budget hearings, PHEAA officials acknowledged that the grants, ranging from $200 to $1200, were going not only for tuition but for dormitory fees, meals, books and transportation.

Moreover, said an indignant Rep. John Stauffer (R-Chester), "Some recipients on the list came from families with five-figure yearly incomes, and I don't believe the hard-pressed taxpayers should be asked to fund a project to help students whose fathers make $20-25 thousand per year."

The uproar came after PHEAA had released county lists of "scholarship" recipients -- showing how 39,000 college students split the $31 million--and when these were published for their own areas by several newspapers across Pennsylvania.

Rep. Stauffer, joined by Joseph V. Zord (R-Allegheny) and 24 other House members, now want to redesign the program, converting it to a direct loan system. Under the new program loans would be made to financially needy students up to a maximum of $2,000 per student per year and a four-year maximum of $7,500.

Such loans would be interest-free and repaid over a 15-year period after graduation, or after leaving college. Students who receive degrees would be granted a 10 per cent premium and would pay back only 90 per cent of the principal.

Thus, on a loan of 47 million annually the maximum cost to the Commonwealth would be 4.7 million (the 10 per cent premium), plus administrative costs.

Said Rep. Zord: "Since statistics show the average college graduate earns $160,000 more in a lifetime than the average non-college graduate, today's needy recipients need not be grudgingly paying back a loan to a state which has provided them with this advantage."

Now the board which runs PHEAA (including 16 legislators) has established stiff new procedures for the collegiate handouts.

The new guidelines limit scholarships to $800 annually instead of $1,200. So as not to penalize thrifty students, only $200 of the first $1,000 in student's savings will be considered assets, but anything over $1,000 will be applied to parental assets. Parents' financial ability will be gauged from Line 9, rather than Line 11B of Form 1040--a procedure designed to eliminate "inherent loopholes" in the Federal Income Tax report.

The board set up a new formula for rating "need," a sliding scale that covers assets as high as $29,000 after which there will be "automatic rejection for no need."

But, says PHEAA Director Kenneth Reehner, "It will be tough to get a scholarship with a family income over $8,000 a year, and it will be extremely tough with an income above $12,000."

I asked God for strength that I might achieve; I was made weak, that I might learn humbly to obey. I asked for strength, that I might do great things; I was given infirmity, that I might do better things. I asked for riches, that I might be happy; I was given poverty, that I might be wise. I asked for power, that I might have the praise of men; I was given weakness, that I might feel the need of God. I asked for all things, that I might enjoy life; I was given life, that I might enjoy all things. I got nothing that I asked for, but everything I had hoped for. Al-most despite myself my unspoken prayers were answered, I am among all men most richly blessed. (Author unknown) and everyday.

Sadly missed by his children

In loving memory of our dear father and husband, JOHN POLLOCK, who passed away June 13, 1967.

A light is from our household gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
Some may think you are forgotten
Though on earth you are no more;
But in memory you are with us
As you always were before.
Sadly missed by his Wife and children

In loving memory of F. A. CARLSON.

Our hearts still ache with loneliness,
Our eyes shed many tears;
God only knows how we miss you,
As it ends these sad few years.
Sadly missed by wife and children

In loving memory of our dad, JAMES WILLARD SLOCUM, who passed away September 7, 1963.

A precious one from us is gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our homes
Which never can be filled.
Missed so very much
By your daughters
Dottie, Judy and Sandra

THE REBELLION

New York, June 14—The management of baseball has been severely criticized this week for not presenting the nation with a united and respectful front after the death of Senator Kennedy. In the apparent absence of any clear policy, each club did its best to offer tribute without endangering important Bat Day promotions or Sunday doubleheaders. This was baseball's first major test: President Kennedy was slain during the football season, and the homage to Dr. King was promoted more by the national guilt, the fear of violence and pressure from black players than from any clear purpose.

The consensus outside baseball seems to be that the National pastime failed its test badly. But for baseball to behave decorously and generously in an unscheduled situation would be out of character: traditionally coddled by Congress, and wrapped in strange dealings with municipal politicians, protected by the press and now supported by television, baseball tends to consider itself above contemporary morality.

The surprise, however, was an incredible public display by a number of players who openly criticized management's refusal to postpone more games in respect to Kennedy's memory. Several players would not play. And, unthinkable, not one was summarily dismissed from the sport.

In the history of America's dissatisfaction with itself in 1968, the relatively mild rebellion of a few baseball players should be worth a milestone. Militants emerged from one of the country's most conservative, conforming and security-conscious groups.

The baseball player, with a few startling exceptions, has traditionally been among the least aware and thoughtful of Major League athletes. His roots are often rural, and his development as an athlete is usually outside the structure of formal education. While the football and basketball players were prepping for the pros in high school and college, the baseball player was learning his trade in the little league, in Babe Ruth, American Legion, Semipro and Minor League ball.

Except for pitchers and some of the more conscientious stars, most baseball players cannot intellectualize their skills, or pass them on. Most baseball players want to play five years to qualify for a pension, and hopefully make enough contacts along the way to assure a good job after the game is up.

They have been justified in their quiet little grasping, because most of them are underpaid at the start of their careers, and overworked throughout. The few hours a day they spend on the ballfield is only a fraction of their working time—hours and hours in airports, on buses, in jets and waiting in hotels to play or travel some more.

Here and there baseball players have rebelled. A brief strike many years ago was ended when management brought in school boys and seminarians. Players who jumped to the Mexican league usually found themselves unable to get back into the majors. But there was little concerted action. Even now most salary holdouts are either formal face-saving rituals or publicity stunts, and many baseball trades are cooked up expressly to give a "clubhouse lawyer" a change of locker.

For a long time, it seemed, baseball was unaffected by the great restlessness sweeping through other sports. The basketball players, often moody, outspoken, very bright men, have been pacified with salaries the sport may not be able to afford. The football players, now locked in a fierce and silent struggle with the owners through their new union, could very possibly break through this summer with an industry-wide strike. And the growing determination of the black college athletes has already been felt in the successful boycott by the Olympic basketball team.

And now, in a mild and tentative way, Maury Wills, a Pittsburgh Pirate who had his troubles with the management in Los Angeles; Milt Pappas, whose outspokenness concerning Cincinnati's pressure on the team to play on that Sunday of mourning triggered his recent trade to Atlanta, and two Houston Astros, Bob Aspromonte, who had just previously been fined for not hustling, and the splendid Rusty Staub, have led their league into a new and chancy era.

All professional athletes will be publicly watching to see what happens to these men beyond the publicly announced, nominal fines. Will there be further, more subtle punishments once the public eye has turned away? And were they merely individual rebels, who can be dealt with, or did they represent a mood of emerging militancy?

European Cyclist Race Scheduled For Tomorrow

The Chautauqua Lake Cyclists will hold their second Moto-Cross race of the season tomorrow, Sunday, afternoon at 1:00. The race will be a European Style moto-cross with many turns, jumps, and high speed straight-aways. This naturally makes for a fast, exciting and very interesting race.

PSUCoaches Step Down

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—John Lucas, head coach of track and cross-country at Penn State since 1962, and John Doolittle, assistant track coach since 1963, will relinquish their coaching positions, it was announced Friday.

Athletic director Ernest B. McCoy said Lucas and Doolittle would step down, effective July 1, in order to devote full time to teaching in the university's physical education program. McCoy expressed hope that successors could be found in the near future.

In six seasons, Lucas' track teams posted an over-all record of 24 wins and 15 losses. One of the better years was 1966, when Penn State had a 7-2 record and finished eighth in the NCAA championships. His cross-country teams were 23-13.

Doolittle, assistant coach in charge of field events, developed several school record holders, including javelin thrower Jim Stevenson, an NCAA champion in 1966.

Packer's Rookie Camp To Open

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The Green Bay Packers' annual rookie indoctrination camp will open Monday with 30 players, plus members of the 1967 taxi squad and veteran centers and quarterbacks attending.

Phil Bengtson, the new head coach of the National Football League champions, will hold 10 meetings Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings to be followed by afternoon practices. A final drill will be held Thursday morning.

50 Lap Sportsmen Headlines Program

Stateline to Shower Kids With 500 Ping Pong Balls

BUSTI, N.Y.—If you are a race fan but of the younger variety, the kind whose legs are too short to reach the pedals or not tall enough to see over the dash board, then tonight is your night here at Stateline Speedway.

More than $500 in prizes, novelties and cash gifts will be awarded to the lucky youngsters as they scramble for valuable ping pong balls during Stateline's sixth annual Children's Night.

A giant helicopter will hover over the infield of the Courtwright Road track at 8:15 p.m. and drop more than two-hundred ping pong balls into the waiting arms of the children. Each ball will be painted a specific color to indicate which of the over 1,000 prizes the ball represents.

Grand prize for the evening will be either a girl's or boy's bicycle. Other prizes include a ride in the helicopter, special games and novelties plus several cash awards.

There will be two drops from the helicopter, one for younger children and a second for the older age group.

Following the ping pong scramble Ron Blackmer will be out to extend his Sportsmen victory streak to five straight feature wins. The Youngsville Ace still remains unbeaten in the Sporty class at the local oval.

Jay Plyler, Lyle Brown and Skip Furrow will be on hand to stop Blackmer in what shapes up to be a real rugged 50-lap feature. The race will be the longest event for the Sportsmen scheduled this season.

Rumor has it that Blackmer will be exhibiting his new sportsmen auto in tonight's big race and all the fans anxiously await the answer to this question.

In the New Car division, defending track Point Champion, Bob Schnars, will be pushing hard to retain his current point lead of 120 points over Blackmer.

The first of 13 exciting racing events gets underway at 8:30 capped by three 25-lap features.

Pickard's Win Moves Britain Ahead of U.S.

NEWCASTLE, Northern Ireland (AP)—England's Margaret Pickard beat Kansas Jean Ashley in the final match of the day to lead Britain's women golfers to a narrow 5-4 edge over the United States in the Curtis Cup matches Friday.

The 30-year-old Briton won the two last holes to top the 29-year-old former U.S. Amateur champion from Chautauque, Kan., 2 up.

This climaxed a series of tightly waged matches over the 6,535-yard, par 38-39-76 Royal County Downs links on the edge of the Irish Sea.

The British team, losers the last four times in this biennial competition, captured a 2-1 advantage in the morning's three foursomes and then split the six singles contests. Each won twice and halved two other matches.

The same nine-match program will wind it up Saturday. In 1966, the United States won 13-5 at Hot Springs, Va., to take a 10-2 lead. They drew in two other meets.

Miss Pickard and teammate Ann Irvin were the only winners in both the foursomes and singles. Mrs. Ann Wells, three-time U.S. champion from Mount Vernon, Wash., lost both of her matches. Miss Irvin beat Mrs. Wells in singles 3 and 2.

Miss Irvin and Belle Robertson fired five birdies in trouncing Mrs. Wells and 19-year-old Shelley Hamilton of Fresno, Calif., 6 and 5.

Miss Pickard and Vivien Saunders beat Mary Lou Dill, the reigning U.S. Amateur champion from Deer Park, Tex., and Peggy Conley of Sp.

Freuss of Pompano Beach, Fla., brought the Americans their first victory.

EVER HEAR OF THE LEGEND OF THE CAP AND GOWN? Perhaps some of you have, but I hadn't, not until the other day when I read this interesting little story: Long ago, in ancient Greece, when formal education was for the very rich or the very determined, a wise old teacher was approached by a group of noblemen. "Our sons have completed their studies and it is time for them to return to their homes and live in the style befitting their station. On the morrow, we will hold a great banquet in their honor and expect them to be dressed in their finest garments." The old man smilingly answered, "They will be there" and he added, "appropriately dressed." The following day, the banquet hall was filled with royalty and nobility dressed in dazzling jewels and costly finery. Then came the great moment when the students entered with their beloved teacher. A startled cry arose from the crowd, for here were their young men, dressed, not in the garments of the noble, but in simple sackcloth robes, each carrying a mortarboard ---- the mark of a common workman. "Let me explain" spoke the teacher as he raised his hands for silence. "Your sons are dressed in the clothing of the mason, for their destiny is to build. Some will build cities, some will build lives ---- perhaps one of them may even build an empire. But all will be builders on the solid foundation of knowledge." And thus, over the years, the cap and gown have become a traditional part of graduation, symbolizing the fact that our young men and women are builders ---- of their own future ---- and the future of the world.

NORTHWESTERN PENNSYLVANIA WOMEN'S GOLF ASSOC. Tournament will be held at the Conewango Valley Country Club on Friday, June 21st. Teeing off time will be 8:30 to 9 a.m. Members of the club are asked to sign up ---- There is a limited handicap of 35. The reservations deadline is Tuesday, June 18th.

JAMES KRIDER of the Family Service and Children's Aid Society will be the speaker at the combined adult Sunday School classes of the United Presbyterian Church of North Warren at 9:45 a.m. in the Sanctuary. All members of the classes in Christian education, as well as others who may be interested, are invited to hear Mr. Krider speak. His topic will have to do with the importance of family life to that of the Church.

MINIATURES: Wednesday and Thursday of next week the Barbersals will have a garage sale at 120 Frank street. Store hours will be observed. Funds go to help finance a trip for international competition in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma in October. Debbie Fitch, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fitch, 282 Buchanan street, is in Hamot Hospital, Erie, recovering from hip surgery. She would enjoy hearing from her friends. Debbie's room number is 633.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What is this world coming to? It seems like the only place a person is safe anymore is in his grave. Last fall an airliner crashed into a row of houses and a dozen people were killed in their living rooms or asleep in their beds.

Several weeks ago a mother in Miami was walking in a park with two little children -- one a baby in a carriage. A drunk driver missed the corner turn and drove up on the sidewalk and killed the mother and the baby.

Yesterday a neighbor told me her cousin's children were playing in their own backyard when a pack of wild dogs jumped the hedge and almost tore the children apart.

Every day we read of senseless killings on the streets of the big cities -- in broad daylight, and often with onlookers who did nothing to help the victim.

I am a teen-ager who is wondering if people are safe anywhere. Please give me some encouragement. I am -- OLD BEFORE MY TIME

DEAR OLD: Life today is somewhat more hazardous because (1) there are more people and they are living closer together. (2) There are more ways for people to get killed due to technological "progress." (3) More nuts have guns than ever before which means more people are going to be shot.

Yet in spite of all this, the insurance actuaries show that every male born in 1967 can expect to reach 68 years of age. Every female can expect to live at least three years longer. Medical science is largely responsible for lengthening the life span.

So stop worrying. Your chances today are actually better than ever. Besides, worry can shorten your life.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A friend of mine asked me to drive down to the courthouse with her so she could "straighten around" her driver's license. It seems that when Polly renewed her license her hair was dark brown. She is now an ash blonde. Polly took her license out of her purse and I noticed she had given her age as 48. I happen to know she is 53. When I called this "error" to her attention she replied, "I don't think it's anybody's business how old I am."

It occurred to me that Polly might get into trouble if it were discovered she gave a false age. What about this? -- GLEN. VIEW, ILLINOIS

SCANDIA CHURCH SANCTUARY

Church Dedication June 23rd

The congregation of the Scandia Covenant Church is in the final phases of planning for its dedication ceremonies in honor of the newly renovated Sanctuary. There are to be both morning and afternoon services on Sunday, June 23. The special morning service will be at 10:30 with the Rev. Carl Fredeen the guest speaker. The afternoon service will begin at 3 o'clock. Guest speaker will be the Rev. Harry Swanson, superintendent of the Middle East Conference.

Special music will be a part of both services. Following the one in the afternoon, a coffee hour will be held in the church social room, according to chairman of the church officers, F. E. Lindblom, and vice chairman, John C. Nordin, the latter also a trustee.

The picturesque little Scandia Church, now 91 years old, was originally called the Swedish Mission Church. Situated in the heart of the Scandia Mountains, it is ideally located for tourists and campers in the area, all of whom are given an open invitation to attend the above mentioned services, as well as those on any Sunday morning, by the pastor of the church, the Rev. Herman Davidson.

Pastor Davidson's invitation is also extended to vacationers by the officers of the church, Dr. Lindblom and Mr. Nordin, already mentioned, and Mrs. J. Rodgers, secretary, Mrs. J. Nordin, treasurer; and trustees, J. Rodgers, W. Birt, E. Sandin, L. Swanson; deacons, H. Nasman, V. Hagberg, R. Campbell, L. Swanson; and the deaconesses, Mrs. W. Birt, Mrs. E. Sandin, Mrs. H. Nasman, Mrs. K. Johnson, Mrs. M. Spetz.

The history of the Scandia church goes back to 1877, when men by the names of Erickson, Sandell, Carlson, Forsburg, Larson, Patterson, Lindstrom, Anderson, Hegg, Sampson, Danielson, Halberg, Hultberg and Nelson signed a resolution to formulate a new church body. By 1879 the church building was completed and ten years later the congregation numbered fifty; a large congregation when one considers that the village of Scandia was at its peak of population about that same time, with seventy pupils in school in all eight grades!

The Ladies Aid Society from the start has been an active factor in the development of the church. During the first years the ladies met to sew, sing and pray, and enjoy the coffee the Swedish are so fond of. The articles they made were sold at auctions, earning money to assist in the support of the home church and mission fields.

The social highlight of the year for this little church in the Scandia Mountains, now, is the annual Homecoming celebration on Labor Day. This has been observed for the past thirty years and people come from hundreds of miles for the morning services; the chicken barbecue, the band concert, horse show and sports program, and just plain socializing. It is a happy and memorable day.

SCANDIA COVENANT CHURCH

The social highlight of the year for this little church in the Scandia Mountains, now, is the annual Homecoming celebration on Labor Day. This has been observed for the past thirty years and people come from hundreds of miles for the morning services; the chicken barbecue, the band concert, horse show and sports program, and just plain socializing. It is a happy and memorable day.

Summer Studies At Holy Redeemer Church

This coming Monday the Summer Study called "Operation Understanding", will begin at Holy Redeemer Church. The following first week schedule will be followed:

Monday, June 17 -- 7:15 to 8:15 p.m.; A film -- "What Catholics Believe about Religion."

Tuesday--June 18--7:15 to 8:15 p.m. A talk--"Understanding Your Teenager: I. Why he has problems," by Sister Kathleen, C.D.S.

Wednesday, June 19 -- 7:15 to 8:15 p.m. A film--"What Catholics Believe about God."

Thursday, June 20 -- 7:15 to 8:15 p.m. A talk--"What the First Grade Teacher Expects of Your Child When He Comes to School," by Sister Marianne, C.D.S. and Sister Clara, C.D.S.

DEAR GLEN: State laws vary, but in Illinois, if a person knowingly makes a false statement when applying for a license he may suddenly find his license revoked. More and more (thank heaven) state laws are being passed which require that everyone over 68 years of age take an examination in order to get his driver's license renewed. This makes it imperative that people be truthful about their age.

Confidential to Tired Of Love: What you are tired of isn't love. He sounds like a dingbat and you sound a little cuckoo yourself.

Each evening event will be followed by a question and answer session and discussion over coffee. It is expected that many will plan to attend some, or all, of the programs. Catholics are invited to bring any of their interested friends, Catholic or non-Catholic, to the evening series.

There will be no charge for any of the Operation Understanding events. All films, lectures, discussions and classes will be held in the Bishop Wheelon Hall (below the Church).

BPW Celebrates Thirtieth Birthday With Dinner Party

Warren BPW club celebrated its thirtieth birthday with a dinner party at St. Paul's Center Tuesday amid a lovely summer setting of seasonal flowers highlighted by the glow of pale green and yellow tapers.

Mrs. Edna Stone, who served the club as president during 1949-1951, as mistress of ceremonies, traced the history of the local organization. Two charter members were introduced, Alice Forbes and Doris Tillard. Each was remembered with a corsage.

Mrs. Edwena Monago of Bradford was the guest speaker. Mrs. Monago was on the staff of the late President John F. Kennedy and was associated with Mrs. Evelyn Lincoln, secretary to the late President. She reviewed Mrs. Lincoln's book, "My Twelve Years With John F. Kennedy" and concluded with an informal discussion of her own experiences. These included the senatorial years, the campaign trail, through to the successful election and the Inaugural Ball.

Miss Betty Lyle, member of the local club and a past director of District One, had charge of the installation of officers who will serve during 1968-1969: President, Bernice Dell; 1st vice president, Ella May Youngquist; 2nd vice president, Helen Olson; recording secretary, Neva Ladner; treasurer, Evelyn Boyd; corresponding secretary, Mary McCurdy. Eva Schmiedel who served the club for two years, was presented the Past President's Pin by Bernice Dell.

Out of town guests were: Martha Davis and Irene Stead of Ebensburg, Penna., each a past president of the Ebensburg BPW Club (Miss Davis and Miss Stead are cousins of Bernice Dell); Sara Waxman, former member of the Warren club, now living in Florida; and Master Freddy Monago of Bradford, son of the guest speaker, Mrs. Monago. Arrangements for the party were in charge of Pauline Frederick, Evelyn Boyd, Edna Stone, Frances Walker and Lillian Walker.

Bernice Dell and Ella May Youngquist are now attending the convention of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs at the Pittsburgh-Hilton.

"Let's talk dry cleaning"

By HOWARD JARVIS

FATHER'S DAY is one day of the year that's heartily welcomed by tired Dads. There isn't one of us who doesn't like the idea of being paid a special tribute. Maybe it's a little sentimental, but an annual day for pampering Pop and treating him like the proverbial lord of the manor seems only fitting. After all, he is the breadwinner!

Clothes are always among the most popular gifts for Fathers . . . which makes us think of past centuries when men went around in much fancier plumage than they do today, with satin waistcoats and ruffled sleeves and powdered wigs. Time was when you could give Dad a lace handkerchief or some black silk stockings as a gift . . . but not today! (We can hear some Dads breathing a sigh of thanks.) Of course, such things as elegant vests and sweaters are back in vogue for men . . . and Dads are wearing gayer colors today. And why not? In the bird and animal kingdoms it's often the male who wears the brightest colors. Even if Dad's clothes don't go to ruffles and satin, they still need regular care to have him look his best. To keep his suits and slacks, his new vests and sweaters and ties always looking smart and new, send them to us for careful, thorough cleaning.

DEAR HELOISE:

A while back a lady complained to you about her garbage disposal smelling and you told her to be sure she got all the food through and to run plenty of water.

It was excellent advice, but when I got my disposal I had the same trouble and being sure it was clean didn't help much.

I found the odor came from what splattered back UP to the top and didn't wash off with cold water. So I changed and washed the dishes on the side of my double sink where the disposal is.

Now it gets washed with detergent water three times a day and no more odor. I just run the disposal a little as my dish water is draining out.

Mrs. W. M. H.

DEAR HELOISE:

I have always found ironing dacron curtains a problem because they don't hold moisture, and dry out before I can finish ironing them.

Then I tried dampening a bath towel and ironing the curtains OVER the wet towel. It's terrific!

Diane Jankowski

DEAR HELOISE:

To cut down on soiled towels when camping, we tie a roll of paper towels to a tree.

Just put a rope or twine through the cardboard tube in the center of the roll of towels and tie it fast to the tree.

Real handy and disposable. No laundry, or lost towels when we get home, either.

Daily Reader

DEAR HELOISE:

Having a son and a son-in-law in Vietnam means a few packages going there weekly especially fudge, which both love. Coffee cans are a great boon in keeping food fresh and unbroken. However, it's not too easy to get many pieces of fudge in a one-pound coffee can.

We just hit on a brain-storm that has solved this problem.

Instead of cutting the fudge in squares, we turn the can upside down and use it for a CUTTER and cut out large, round pieces. Then with wax paper in between, put in as many circles as the can will hold. Works great!

As these cans are open at one end with a plastic cover, the Post Office Department wants them wrapped. They fit perfectly in a half-gallon milk carton which is then real easy to wrap.

Eunice and Emerson Coe

DEAR FOLKS:

Here's a caution I just received from a large manufacturer of pots and pans . . .

"NEVER clean copper-tone covers in a dishwasher. Definite fading and streaking will take place and the beautiful anodized finish may come off entirely."

So, folks, take heed of this and keep your pretty copper-tone lids looking as they should by washing them by hand.

ROUGH CURVES

The Scandia road has fewer curves than most of our area roads, but there are a few that could stand some attention. While the straightening of curves on a scenic highway isn't always necessary, a widening of the road at these points would improve the safety factor.

BLIND SPOT

Because the present road follows the contour of the land, some of the "peaks" create dangerous blind spots for the driver and the condition is worsened by the narrowness of the pavement.

DIRT ROAD WIDER

The dirt road that continues on from the end of the blacktop on the Scandia Road to the state line is not only wider than the paved portion, but by blending smoothly into the berms presents no drop off problems such as those so common along the patched portions of the pavement.

'Cancer Fighter' Arrives in Warren County This Sunday

The newest "cancer fighter" in town will arrive for the citizens of Warren County to visit next week, according to Mrs. Sharon California, executive director of the Warren County Unit, American Cancer Society.

The cancer-fighter is actually a mobile exhibit truck, newest weapon in the Society's arsenal of tools to fight cancer through public knowledge.

The truck carrying the exhibit will be located at the following times and places:

Sunday, June 16, Kinzua Dam Overlook, 1-5 p.m.

Monday, June 17, Dorcon, 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.; Jamesway, 4-9 p.m.

Tuesday, June 18, Sylvania (Lexington ave.) 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Sheffield, 1:30 -5 p.m.

Wednesday, June 19, Tidioute, 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; Youngsville swimming pool, 1-5 p.m.

Thursday and Friday, June 20-21, Warren Plaza (foot of Market st.)

The truck, owned by the Society's Pennsylvania Division, is touring Pennsylvania shopping centers, fair grounds, schools, conventions and factories. The display presently incorporated into the van contains a two-minute film presentation on the health hazards of smoking.

Also featured is a series of color reproductions of photomicrographs, made by a pathologist, showing cancer cells in various stages of development. A continuous tape transcription explains the photos, comparing cancerous tissue to normal tissue and pointing out the relationship of cancer's warning signals to growths in various parts of the body.

"This unique American Cancer Society exhibit is an attempt to better inform people of our area about the hazards of smoking and the importance of the annual health checkup," Mrs. California explains. "I hope everyone, both parents and children, will take time to visit the display during the time it's in Warren county."

Are You Serious About A Job That's Fun?

Then try Pennsylvania. Because Pennsylvania's great opportunities offer fun jobs (and serious jobs) for everyone.

Like this girl. She's an artist in a television studio. Sounds great . . . but you're not an artist? Well, there's also plenty of room in the same studio for stylists, secretaries, set designers—just about anything you can think of.

And the same is true all over Pennsylvania. Not just in television, but in any career you choose.

If you want to work at a job that's fun, think seriously about Pennsylvania.

Your Horoscope By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, JUNE 15, 1968

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—If you happen to get a late start, pick up your pace as you go along. Your fine mind and quick comprehension of all situations should be stimulated now.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Venus, auspicious, encourages artistic pursuits, romance, domestic interests. Day spells action, determination, aggressiveness. Plan wisely.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Influences favorable in part, but day will require more effort, steady application of your skills and knowledge. Cooperation with right forces vital, as is strength of conviction.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—You can make a bright new place for yourself with a little more diligence and a gracious demeanor. Use a practical arena for trying out ideas before putting them into effect.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Personal development must accompany all endeavors. The well-rounded Leoite can stride ahead with distinction now. Take setbacks in stride, seeking better ways to push forward promptly.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—If you let things slide, you will become "upset" when results are not as desired. Read the signals and rules early, and keep your activity at an even pace. Curb emotionalism.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Step up endeavors to meet competition that is working overtime. The extra try will be worth it.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—Handle routine with alacrity. Don't be distracted by non-essentials. Maneuver practically, in decisive manner.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Jupiter influences now suggest that you get a tight hold on reins and direct with fitness; also willingness to be taught a new trick or method.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Separate fact from fiction precisely; waste no time beginning duties, and where useless "extras" would distract, delete them from your schedule. Keep day shipshape.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Others are observing, some following your example. Your best foot forward! Stress vital points, but no exaggerating or cutting corners too close.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Your zeal and ambition should bring fine gains and a large share of happiness, but do not overtax yourself. Meet new situations with logic.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a fine imagination and great practicality. Your mind sees into the future, often with amazing accuracy, because you are always absorbing knowledge and observing. When you act, it comes with precision and a quality of adaptability that is outstanding. You can conquer or revolutionize with skill and lasting effect. Don't capsize your own boat by overstriving or overcrowding schedules, however. The measured step is steadier, less hectic than sporadic effort, and brings substantial credits. Birthdate of: Mme. How to Keep Well By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

(c) 1968 By The Chicago Tribune

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

DANGEROUS DOZEN

The injury control program of the United States public health service lists 12 household items causing the most accidents. The majority of victims are children who want to help or who are just curious. Power tools and heating appliances are the top two of the dangerous dozen. Each is responsible for 125,000 accidents per year.

The tools involved are electric drills, power saws, Sanders, and jointers. Space heaters, floor furnace grates, and full-size furnaces are among the heating units. Children are intrigued by power tools so keep the devices locked up.

The next three items account for 100,000 accidents apiece. These include clothes wringers, cooking stoves, and power mowers with sharp blades. The rotary type cutter also ejects objects with more force than a ball hit by a major leaguer. It is surprising how often the operator or someone nearby is struck by a stone, or piece of wire or steel.

Skillets cause 80,000 serious burns annually from boiling water and splattering grease. Don't let your small fry become burnt fries by letting handles protrude from the stove. Incinerators and outdoor grills result in 50,000 injuries. They are especially dangerous when flammable liquids are used to start the fire.

We were surprised to learn that glass doors were eighth on the list. They are beautiful when clean, but mishaps occur when children think the door is open and run into them. Approximately 35,000 youngsters are injured when they tug on the cord of a toaster or coffee pot. An equal number receive electrical burns or shocks when they stick a bobby pin into a wall socket or gnaw on electric cords.

The last of the dangerous dozen are sunlamps and pilot lights. The latter enter the picture when paint and solvent vapors are used near the flame.

TOMORROW: A Real Father.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

RED NODULES UNDER SKIN

A reader writes: What is erythema nodosum and how serious is it?

REPLY
Erythema nodosum is a generalized disorder characterized by red nodules under the skin, usually the legs. The lesions may coexist with sore throat, arthritis, rheumatic fever, or tuberculosis. Symptoms include headache, muscular and joint pains, nausea, and vomiting. Salicylates relieve pain and a broad spectrum antibiotic helps control the disease. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this condition.

Penn State Launches Pilot School Along Allegheny River

UNIVERSITY PARK — A band of high school students from Oil City has gone back to "playing" in the dirt again—but this time as pioneers in a unique educational experiment that could take them all the way back to the year 2,500 B.C. in American history.

Working in cooperation with the Oil City School District, The Pennsylvania State University has launched a special, pilot archaeological field school along the Allegheny River in Venango County.

What makes the school different is that it will be staffed almost entirely by high school students, either from Oil City High School, or other schools in the area.

Armed with trowels, shovels, whisk-brooms, and paint brushes for scraping away the dirt, the group of 20 youngsters is seeking evidences of settlement patterns and dwellings dating back some 4,000 years.

But even more important, the success of this experiment could be a major step in the incorporation of anthropology and archaeology as part of the regular high school curriculum in Pennsylvania.

"We know of only one other state that offers high school courses in anthropology, and that's Connecticut," report Sue Ann Curtis and Charles C. Kolb, co-directors of the project from Penn State.

According to Miss Curtis, a graduate student, the significance of the site—located at the Allegheny River-Pine Creek Triangle about two miles upstream from Oil City—was first discovered in 1965.

"A surface survey of the river terrace disclosed the presence of flint detritus associated with the excavation and backfill for electric poles," she explains. "Prompted by this evidence, we made a series of small test pits and found not only historic china and earthenware, but also worked river cobbles and fragments of prehistoric cord-marked pottery."

Small volunteer groups of youngsters dug at the site in the summers of 1966 and 1967, but this is the first year it has been done in conjunction with the annual summer school sessions offered in the Oil City area.

"We had over 50 applicants for our field school, and could accept only 15," reports Kolb, an instructor in anthropology. "Each student will receive the equivalent of one unit of academic credit."

The course, entitled "Pennsylvania Archaeology," began June 11 and will run through July 29, with students on the site five days a week, 8 a.m. to noon. A special laboratory is being set up at the Oil City High School, and the youngsters are splitting into teams, with each team working at the lab once a week and the other four days on the site. At the same time, in-class discussion on the role of archaeology and anthropology in today's society is planned throughout the eight weeks.

"We will be looking primarily for lithic materials, ceramics, preserved bones and other imperishables, significant to the time periods we believe are embraced in the site," Kolb explains. "We will also be looking for size, shape and methods of construction of prehistoric dwellings in the area."

"With the help of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission and the Carnegie Museum of Pittsburgh, we have already been able to confirm occupation of the site in the Late Woodland (500 A.D. to 1500 A.D.) and Middle Woodland (500 B.C. to 500 A.D.) periods, with some Archaic evidence as well," says Miss Curtis. "The projectile points we have found date all the way from 2,500 B.C. up to the B.C.-A.D. line."

Any findings by the students may also serve as a valuable aid to American historians in connection with the Monongahela and Owaseco cultures.

The Monongahela culture is localized in the Pittsburgh region, while the Owaseco culture is a product of the upper New York area, yet evidence from the Seneca Farm Site where the new Penn State Field School is located show a tremendous amount of overlap.

"We want to find out more about the cultural affinities of this area based on artifactual evidence," Miss Curtis points out. "We would like to find out in just which ways the settlement patterns overlapped. Much of this can be done just by tracing settlement patterns and size, shape and structure of dwellings."

As for the site itself, Kolb says it is "beautifully stratified," its deposit of prehistoric material seemingly undisturbed.

"Most of what we will be looking for is probably within three feet of the surface, so we will be doing more scraping and intricate work, than deep digging," he explains. "The colors of the soil—with their rich browns, reds, and blacks, make for a beautiful teaching situation."

Assisting the two Penn State instructors in directing the project are Robert Flath, a social science instructor at Oil City High School, and Susan Peebles, of Franklin, who has worked with Miss Curtis during the past two years at the site.

"We are positive the information forthcoming from this analysis of the settlement pattern and artifacts will be a significant contribution to the history and prehistory of west-central Pennsylvania," Miss Curtis concludes. "It is an area about which very little is known and even less reported in literature."

Largest Class In History To Graduate

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — The largest graduating class in the history of Pennsylvania State University will receive degrees at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at commencement exercises in Beaver Stadium.

Roger W. Rowland, of New Castle, president of the Board of Trustees, and Dr. Eric Walker, university president, will confer degrees on 3,703 candidates.

This will bring to 6,557 the total number of degrees awarded in three prior commencement exercises of the 1967-68 academic year.

The current candidates represent all 67 Pennsylvania counties and 42 states of the union.

The largest group receiving degrees are 2,427 seniors eligible for the baccalaureate degree. Another 921 who have completed two-year programs at extension campuses throughout the state are due to get associate degrees; 355 graduate students have qualified for advanced degree, 71 of them doctorates.

Added to the graduates this year are 11 seniors from the Capitol Campus at Middletown. They are the first to be graduated from that campus.

Of all the candidates, 262 are to be graduated with honors in various fields. And prior to the exercises 120 graduates who have completed one of the Reserve Office Training Corps programs are to receive their commissions in a four-service ceremony scheduled for 8 a.m. Saturday in Schwab Auditorium.

FIRST PILGRIM CHURCH

'Who Touched Me?'

By R. S. Humphries, Pastor First Pilgrim Church

We read in the 8th chapter of the book of St. Luke these words from the lips of the Lord Jesus Christ; "Who Touched Me?"

The incident that brought forth this question was the healing of a woman who had an issue of blood for twelve years, she had spent all she had on the medicine available, and for the physicians' fees. It seems they could not give her a definite hope of being healed from this condition.

As far as the ordinary ways of healing were concerned, this woman was without hope, but she had heard of one called Jesus, and the many wonderful works he had done. This day was to be the turning point in her life, for she was about to come in direct contact with this one called Jesus.

As the Lord was passing by, and the crowd was pressing against him, the woman came from behind him and reached out to touch the hem of his garment.

I wonder if we fully realize the intensity, the hope, the determination of this woman as she reached out for the Lord Jesus Christ. He was her only hope, all others had failed. But she believed, if she could only touch the hem of his garment, she would be cured.

As she touched the hem of the garment, "immediately her issue of blood stanch'd", she was made whole. It was at this time Jesus said "Who touched me?". Peter and the others that were with him said, "Master, the multitude throng thee and press thee, and sayest thou, who touched me?", in other words the crowd was so great and the people were pushing and pressing on all sides of the Lord, and Peter could not understand what Jesus was saying when he asked who touched him because many had touched him, physically, but there was only one that had touched him in faith, the woman with the issue of blood.

Jesus said "Somebody hath touched me: for I perceive that virtue is gone out of me," Jesus felt the presence of this faithful one and knew she had called upon His great power of healing for virtue had gone out of him, and she was healed.

We read in the following verses that the woman came out of the crowd, trembling, and falling down before him and declared to all the people why she had touched him and how she was healed immediately.

Isn't it strange how we will try all manner of solutions to our problems, and then when all else fails we turn to God, who has been there all the time waiting and willing to help us, if we would only by faith, reach out and touch him?

What was the power of the garment which the woman touched? Was it made of a special cloth? Was there a power sewn in the hem of that garment? NO beloved, it was not in the cloth, not in the garment itself, for Jesus said unto her "Daughter, be of good comfort; thy FAITH hath made thee whole; go in peace". The faith was of the woman, the power to make whole through the releasing of that faith was in Christ Jesus himself.

Material things have their value and their place of service, but it is the spiritual, intangible, that we must ever put our trust in, those things of God which we cannot understand fully, but by faith we must believe that "only what we do for God will last".

Why not put your faith in God? Why not trust his word? He will never leave thee nor forsake thee, this is his promise.

If you have tried all the other ways of receiving help for your "condition" and they have all failed you, why not Reach Out With Faith to the Lord Jesus Christ and touch, as it were, the hem of his garment that he might say to you "be of good comfort; thy faith hath made thee whole".

How The Hot Stove League Ticks

CATCHERS WELL PROTECTED

The catchers in the league are well protected as can be seen above as Kelley Metzgar receives help from his coach, Raymond Nowacki, in donning his equipment before entering the action.

RUNNER DIGS FOR FIRST

An unidentified runner digs for first base after clubbing the ball into center field. The catcher and plate umpire immediately become alert as the moment grows tense.

POWER AT THE PLATE

There is plenty of power at the plate in the league as Mike Griffin, batter for Warren National Bank, belts the ball while New Process catcher Kelley Metzgar reaches out to back the batter up in case his swing isn't too accurate.

COACH CHECKS WITH STATISTICIAN

Everett Siefert, coach of the Warren National Bank team, checks with his statistician, daughter Gretchen, to see if everything is running smoothly. A good score-keeper can be a great asset to the coach and team.

LOOK OF DEFEAT

New Process pitcher Charles Beckham has a look of defeat upon his face as he is tagged for the loss.

WINNING HURLER

John Siefert, pitcher for Warren National looks mighty pleased as he just picked up a victory over New Process 7-4.

EVERYONE HAS A JOB TO DO

Everyone on a team in the league has a big job to do as can be seen above. The pitcher starts the action while the batter and catcher next are relied upon and finally the ball is hit either to the watchful fieldmen and then pegged to first or the ever dreaded pop-fly is snagged by the alert fielder.
